

EcoWeekend, a program of Columbus Audubon, will be held May 2-4, 2014 at Camp Oty'Okwa in the Hocking Hills. EcoWeekend brings you the very best in fun, family-friendly, and educational nature programming in central Ohio. Participants design their own weekend experience by choosing from 50 programs offered over five program sessions, including birding, animal and plant life of Central Ohio, nature-related arts and crafts, astronomy, geocaching and much more. A special youth program is held on Saturday morning and afternoon.

New programs this year include presentations about medicinal plants, bird migration, bird banding, and several new nature walks. A special Saturday night program will feature the Columbus Zoo exhibiting animals in an educational and entertaining session.

Our full program is available at www.ecoweekend.org. You can register online or print out our registration form and mail it in by April 4, 2014.

Website: www.ecoweekend.org

Email: ecoweekend@columbusaudubon.org

Facebook: <http://www.facebook.com/pages/Eco-Weekend/284290572847>

Twitter: https://twitter.com/Eco_Weekend